Art Unit: 1725

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

3. Claims 2, 5-6, 8-12, 20 and 26-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over applicant's admitted prior art as set forth in page 2 of the specification as well as figure 1 and further in view of JP 9-57,401.

Applicant's admitted prior art substantially shows the invention as claimed except that the coil is not provided in the yoke. However, JP '401 shows to provide the coil in the yoke such that to shorten the time for maintenance, such as change of a coil. It would have been obvious to provide the coil of the admitted prior art in the yoke in view of JP '401 to facilitate the maintenance of the EM brake.

4. Applicant's arguments filed Jan. 07, 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Art Unit: 1725

Applicant's main argument is that JP '401 is directed to a vertical brake rather than a horizontal brake of the instant invention. However, the admitted prior art, which is a primary reference, shows a horizontal brake. Since JP '401 shows the concept of providing the coil in the yoke (6c) which disposed between the magnetic poles (6a, 6b which are the same as the first and second parts as claimed) such that to facilitate the maintenance of the EM brake, it would have been obvious to adapt the very concept of JP '401 in making the EM brake of the admitted prior art in view of the advantage. In response to applicant's arguments against the references individually, one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986).

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
